MANY BIG BALL PLAYERS

COMISKEY HAS PICKED UP. His the Most Fortunate Basebal. Magnate in the World in the Matter of Bargains.

Sheer luck and baseball intuition have made Charles A. Comiskey the most fortunate magnate in the world most fortunate magnate in the world in picking up great catchers and pitchers, says a Chicago writer. Just think of it! Comiskey corraled six of the greatest slabmen in captivity, worth in cold cash more than $200,000, if they could be bought at all, and Commy bagged them for a mere song. Schalk cost the most of all of these celebrities whose names will adorn the hall of fame in the great pastime. Comiskey paid $15,000 in cash and players for the release of this young catching phenomenon from the M'l-waukee club. Schalk couldn't be purchased now, for Comiskey is in the basebail world to remain. He values the esteem and good will of the fans above all things else, and knows he couldn't part with Schalk and retain that respect—so that settles it.

that respect—so that settles it.

"Schalk is the greatest young catcher I ever saw," was the spontaneous exclamation of John J. McGraw after seeing the little catcher in action last fall. Laudatory remarks about the Sox pitchers are common in the big basebail centers. The earned its proves their superiority. It's a joke to ask Comiskey to sell one of his sextette of star pitchers. The Sox owner dreams of the day when the world's pennant will float from his basebail stadium on the south side. He has stadium on the south side. He has the pitchers and the catchers to reach this goal. Now he's after the hitters. If Fournier keeps on, Comiskey will have his first 300 hitter in many a have his first .300 hitter in many a day.

"I sell Ed Walsh—not on your life," said Comiskey recently. 'Nor would I have released him if he hadn't come back—not so long as I own this ball club. Ed's with me to stay while I remain in the game." This is the way Comiskey feels about his great collection of slab stars. The Old Roman has a warm place in his affections for all the boys and now that they have White House that a very careful watch would be kept on all ships of the warring nations which come to American ports to make certain that they do not violate the neutrality proclamations. In case any merchant ships are found fitting out for war, they will be held.

Walsh, Scott, Benz, Russell, Cicotte London. Aug. 6.—The Leyland Line Kuhn and Faber-seven of the bright-Queenstown at 3.39 o'clock this after-noon for New York.

Scott was tipped off to Comiskey by one of the Cantillons, a lifelong friend, German Tank Steamer Captured. and signed by the Sox owner at a Paris, via London, Aug. 6.—French small figure. Benz was purchased from preede craft from Bizerta today capand farmed out to Des Moines, where he ripened into a star. Cicotte, a castoff of the Boston Red Sox, was chased from the Hub organization for a few thousand dollars. Comiskey wouldn't take $50,000 for Eddie now, and that sale is looked upon as one of the luckiest strokes of fortune recorded in many a year in the leagues.

Russell came to the Sox at the palcry draft price for players drawn from the Texas league. Today he is one of the greatest southpaw twirlers and he's not for sale at any price. Faber came to the White Sox for a few hundred dollars. This young recruit is looked upon as the most highly prized slah "find of the season" in the big leagues. Baseball players say no young pitcher in the world has more stuff than the former college star of Dubuque. Kuhn, a close second of Schalk when in condition, cost President Comiskey little coin. If Schalk should break a finger on his costly right hand Kuhn might have all the critics harping about him in short order. Billy Sullivan, one of the greatest catcher. the greatest catchers of all time, in practically in retirement, but he's a valuable asset of the Sox yet, and is only another example of Comiskey a remarkable luck in getting stars for a mere drop in the burket.

BRITAIN'S CONTRACAND OF WAR PROCLAMATION.

Food, Grain, Money, Horses and Goneral Supplies Subject to Seizure.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Great Britain's contraband of war proclamation was cabled to the state department today by Ambassador Page. It placed arms, ammunition and all distinctly military supplies on the list of "absolute" contraband, and designated food, grain, money, horses and general supplies as "conditional" contraband.
